SPECIAL PROGRAM TO OPEN CLUB'S FALL SESSIONS

BY VICKI L. HILL

The Bay Waveland Garden Club will open its Autumn program for members and their guests, conducted by the eminent horticulturalist, Benjamin Y. Morrison.

Morrison has a long list of achievements to his credit both through his affiliation with various organizations interested in the pursuit of horticultural advancement and as an experimentalist on his own.

He was for twenty-five years editor of the National Horticultural Magazine, journal of the American Horticultural Society.

On June 8, 1953 Morrison was presented the Arthur Hoyt Scott Garden Award. At this time the appointed committee considered over forty persons for the award and decided that Morrison was the most outstanding horticulturalist.

His works include his enthusiastic participation in the organization of the American Iris society in 1920. His interest in development of Daffodils at the same time was remarkable in that he imported into this country many varieties then little-known. For many years he was editor of the American Iris Society. About 1930 the famed horticulturalist joined the staff of the Division of Plant Exploration and Introduction of the US Department of Agriculture, and became its head in 1934. In 1937 the development of the US National Arboretum was placed under Morrison's administration. He held the above responsibilities until 1948, when he became director of the Arboretum.

As a "Sheldon" (Harvard) fellow he went to the Orient in the interest of landscape architecture and in 1931 was sent abroad to study botanical gardens in Europe and the British Isles. He was elected as a delegate to the International Botanical Congress in Amsterdam in 1938, and in 1941 and 1943 was sent to Peru and Columbia, respectively, to assist those countries with an agricultural program.

Most outstanding among Morrison's personal experiments are his Glenn Dale hybrids which took a patient and unflinching effort over a period of twenty years to develop. His pet hobby is growing azaleas from seed, which he does with magnificent results on his estate in nearby Pineville, to which he retired in 1951 from Civil Service. However, the amiable bachelor remains on call of the USDA as a consultant.

The meeting has been called by Mrs. Charles Beyer, president of the Bay Waveland Garden Club, for 3 p.m. Thursday, September 10.

Hostess for the occasion will be Mrs. E. N. Spence. Assisting her at the tea which will follow will be Mrs. Walter Cox, Jr., Mrs. M. A. Gilmore, Mrs. James Crump, Mrs. Ashley Catledge, Mrs. F. G. Pratt, Mrs. E. C. Samuel and Mrs. H. A. Eldridge.

MISSISSIPPI POLIO SAID DECREASED

The State Department of Health reported that less than half as many polio cases have been reported in Mississippi this year as in 1952.

Only 236 cases of infantile paralysis have been diagnosed in the state so far during 1953, Dr. Felix Underwood, Executive Director, said, compared to 495 for the same period last year. He attributed this to a cooler summer and the availability of gamma globulin for persons exposed to the disease.

INSTRUCTORS ADDED AT MISSISSIPPI STATE

President Ben Hilburn announced the appointment of eight new faculty members at Mississippi State College. The five instructors, William O. Thomas, Coy O. Box, in Horticulture, Ralph P. Sledge in Electrical Engineering, James G. Teer, Zoology and Entomology, Willis J. Robertson, Sociology and rural life; two assistant professors, Dr. Scott C. Osborn, English Department, Ari van Tinsheoven, Poultry Husbandry; and one associate professor, Dr. Robert A. Weber, General Education, will begin their teaching duties in September.

WAVELAND WANDERINGS

BY GEORGETTE HALL

The Waveland School opened Monday, August 31, with almost one hundred children registering. The children, faculty and a few parents gathered in the school auditorium Monday morning for the first assembly of the year. Mrs. A. Mapp was at the piano, Miss Mary Perkins, principal, greeted everyone present and made a few announcements concerning the schedule for this week, price of school lunches, bus schedule, room placement.

Following the assembly the various grades assembled in their classrooms.

Miss Mary Margaret Turcotte will teach First and Second; Miss Cecile Turcotte, Third and Fourth; Mrs. Effie Mazarakis, Fifth and Sixth; and Miss Mary Perkins, Seventh and Eighth. Wednesday the children went through and terminating at three in the afternoon and terminating at three in the afternoon.

The Town of Waveland and the Waveland School are most proud of their beautiful new school bus, which will hold a capacity of sixty pupils. The bus will be used to take students to Bay High School, St. Joseph's Academy and St. Stanislaus. It is hoped that with the new bus only one "run" to Bay St. Louis in the morning and afternoon will be made, thus accommodating all students who attend the various schools there. This will eliminate the very early hours which some students found most difficult in catching the first bus in the morning.

J. C. Piazza and Miss Shirley Turcotte attended the Librarians' Concert in New Orleans Saturday evening. Also going from Waveland to see the sensational pianist of TV, radio and films were Mrs. T. H. Brockman, Mrs.

Georgette Hall and Miss Lynne Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Schwane and children spent the week-end in Waveland with the Turcotte family. Mrs. Turcotte returned with them after spending a week's vacation in New Orleans.

Mrs. Hilda Erwin and Mrs. Betty Rose spent the week-end in New Orleans.

Mrs. W. Jones, mother of Mrs. George Stels, and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Coates and daughters, Barbara Ann, were guests over the week-end of Mr. and Mrs. George Stels.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Haggerty, Mr. and Mrs. La Vollette and children, and Mrs. John Bosio of New Orleans spent the week-end at "Cricket Heath."

Brother Robert McNamara of the Waveland Baptist Mission and the Lake Shore Baptist Church is attending a Mission School in Clark County, Miss.

Friends of Mrs. Ed Carver, wish her speedy recovery after undergoing surgery in New Orleans.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Roseman visited friends in Covington during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Henchy are occupying their home on Waveland Ave. which was purchased some time ago. Mr. Henchy was formerly superintendent of Southdown Sugars, Houma, La. The Henchys plan to make Waveland their permanent residence.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Carver are quite exuberant over the birth of a little boy to their granddaughter, Mrs. Anthony Chetta. The young man has been named Anthony. This is the second great grandchild for the Carvers.

Visiting with the Carvers on Sunday were Mrs. Walter Carver, Jr., and son, Walter, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Del-

HUGE PLANTING ASSURES FUTURE TIMBER SUPPLY

JACKSON - (Special) - Mississippi is restocking in a big way its timber resources to assure the industry ample supplies in the years ahead to continue its contribution to the state's wealth in jobs, payrolls and taxes.

A report of the 1952-53 forest tree seedling plantings by C. B. Marlin, forest management director of the State Forestry Commission, discloses that 75,000,000 seedlings were put out during that season. They were produced by the Mississippi Forestry Commission, US Forest Service, Tennessee Valley Authority, Soil Conservation Service and industrial nurseries.

The plantings were on 70,000 acres of unproductive, eroding and barren land. Of the total planted, nearly 64,000,000 of the seedlings were on private lands.

"While we can be justly proud of the planting this year, this is only a drop in the bucket compared to the 4 million acres of barren eroded and unproductive soil needing planting," Mr. Marlin said. "Until these remaining acres are brought into production, their contribution to Mississippi will be silt-filled streams, dry water wells and other added hardships to the citizens."

The pulp and paper industry planted 20,200,000 of the trees in Mississippi on its own lands and those of private

In the 14 years since the completion of Mississippi's first commercial oil well, a new and highly productive industry has added ONE BILLION NEW DOLLARS to the state's economy.

To this significant contribution is being added more than 900 million annually, as Mississippi's oil and gas industry pays wages to its 5000 employees, multiplies and feeds capital to landowners, creates state and local governments, and as it provides supplies and services from Mississippi businesses.

Oil and gas flow through many hands, from the wellhead to the consumer. To the producer, the refiner, the transporter, the marketer, the consumer, the farmer, the home owner, the business man, the government, the people in every corner of the state, Mississippi county have benefited from the productive and productive accomplishments of Mississippi's oil and gas industry.

The enterprising men and companies who have risked a billion dollars in Mississippi have been aided immeasurably to their work by the encouragement of Mississippi people . . . by fair treatment, understanding and a recognition of the importance of oil and gas development to Mississippi's economic growth.

This is the same public and official attitude which more than anything else has focused the attention of manufacturers on Mississippi plant sites. We of Mississippi's oil and gas industry thank our neighbors for their confidence and trust. In such a friendly economic "climate" we find the incentive to expand. We earnestly wish your continued good will toward our efforts to develop this state's hidden and unused wealth.

MISSISSIPPI OIL, GAS, COAL

General Oilfields for sale will be made freely available in Mississippi. That is the policy of the Division of Petroleum Resources, according to Dr. A. L. Gray, director of the Division of Petroleum Resources.

The areas which prevent or reduce the severity of paralysis in poliomyelitis will be available now to individuals, personal contacts, group contacts, all personal contacts, group contacts, and members of immediate families up to 30 years of age in which a case of suspected case occurs, states Dr. Gray.

"Use in school, church, and party groups exposed must be on a very limited basis depending on many factors, which will have to be evaluated for each individual group by the health officer and the state director of preventable disease control," explains Dr. Gray. "This type of contact is less hazardous than other more intimate types, and could easily drain the supply of globulin," he adds.

Complete information concerning the new regulation have been sent to all physicians and county health departments in the state by Dr. Gray. According to Dr. Gray to date Mississippi has reported 236 cases as compared to 495 for the same period last year, which has made the demand for serum less than anticipated. The globulin originally was allocated to the states on the basis of the annual average number of poliomyelitis cases.

An additional unexpected supply of globulin was allocated to Mississippi by the national allocation authority August 19 which, added to the original quantity received, makes possible the more liberal use of the serum, reports Dr. Felix J. Underwood who, like all state health officers, is charged with the distribution in this state in accordance with fixed regulations by the Office of Defense Mobilization. The globulin will continue to be distributed only through the county health

Happy Birthday

Fourteen years ago this month, Mississippi's first commercial oil well was completed in Yazoo County and a new industry of statewide significance was born.

This new industry has grown to be one of the state's most important enterprises, and its activities and expenditures have contributed decisively to the economic progress of Mississippi.

Last year, GULF's activities benefited directly more than 7,000 Mississippians. GULF's ten field discoveries and $100 million investment, as well as the 15 million new dollars which GULF currently is adding to Mississippi's channels of trade each year, have produced indirect benefits for many more Mississippians.

The accomplishments of GULF in finding oil and natural gas in this state, like the state's accomplishments in improving its agricultural, industrial balance and establishing a sound basis for future economic growth, are made possible by faith in Mississippi, by a willingness to make large investments in time, effort and money, and by the friendly, cooperative spirit of the people who live here.

TUNG PRODUCTION STATE TO EQUAL LAST YEAR'S CROP

Production of tung nuts in the state is expected to equal last year's crop. Dr. G. E. Tinsley, State Laboratory of Forestry, said that the crop in 1953 will be about the same as in 1952. The tung nut is a valuable source of tung oil, which is used in the manufacture of varnishes and paints. The tung nut is also used in the manufacture of tung oil, which is used in the manufacture of varnishes and paints.
